Rather Expensive Furs.

THE LAST CHANCE:

Rather Expensive Furs.

[Paris Letter, Nov. 27, Philadelphia North American.]

The subject of furs brings to my mind the Empress of Russia's visit to Paris, on ther way to the south from England, which will deelde for democracy and liberty, or radicalism and the downfall of republican government. The recent democratic victories inspire the hopes of freenen. Business is reviving, and the people seek eagerly for political and general information. Consequently, newspapers are more eagerly sought and are being taken to every intelligent household, as the greatest source of home education and amusement.

In addition to his county journal, every person should take one great City paper, which furnishes the latest Telegraphic, and the further and current news of the day. And to opportunity is now presented to subscribe for such a journal, and at the same time without extra charge secure the chance of getting one thousand dollars in gold, or other magnificent present, as set forth below.

New York, December 19.—The body of a child, supposed to be that of Charlie Boss, has been found in Newark bay. The burglar, Mosher, often anchored in that vicinity.

Three little girls, the oldest less than ten years old, were caught plundering a toy store in San Francisco. They had carefully planned the robbery, and, having climbed in through an unfastened rear window, early in the morning, while the porter was sweeping the sidewalk, were just retreating with their pockets and hands full of dolls and other playthings. They were thoroughly scared by as hour of detention in a police station, and then sent home for spanking by their parents, who are reputable people.

It Positively Produces a Permanent

It is strange, at the that as rule it is a society become adducted to this diseased appetite. A habit which makes them alayes beelouds their minds, ruins their dispositions, and gives them in their more natural moments a hatred of self as well as a feeling that everybody despises them—to such an extent that society has no charms. But thanks to the Giver of all good this morbid. well as all of the desire and feeling for opi-ates in any form is soon removed by this remarkable antidote, entirely so, and the weakened body and mind are invigorated, given renewed health until love and hope take the place of despondency and doubt, Though you may not be afflicted with the habit of using MORPHINS, LAUDANUM, or other forms of OPIUM, some friend may be, and you know it not, therefore set me ask you, in the name of suffering humanity to pass this on. By so doing you may reag the reward of those who do good. Delay NOT.

It will therefore become necessary for publishers to attend to this payment instead of sub-to attend to this jayment instead of subscribers.

The postage heretofore paid by subscribers on the Constitution, has been at the rate of $1.20 per year on the Daily, and 25 cents per year on the Weekly. Hereafter, on subscriptions running after the 18t of January, subscribers will pay no postage their home postoffices, but in remittances to this office it will be necessary to add to the usual subscription price of the paper-the following rates for the prepayment of Destage:

In other words, the price of the Consti-tivities, to-mail subscribers will, hereafter be at the rate of $ 0.60 for the Daily, and $2.15 for the Weekly, which will include prepayment of postage-payment in all cases to be made in suvance.

The saving in the sum thus paid for post-age by subscribers is clearly apparent in these figures, amounding to one half in the Daily, and nearly as much in the Weekly edition.

It is hardly fair to urge people to be prudent and economical, and to lay up ket benefit a community that is confessedly money against the rainy days of life, unless reasonable inducements and accommodations are furnished for that purpose-such inducements and accommodations as the older countries and cities have long possessed. The man who can fit a poor man who wants money i save but a few dollars a month, or even each year, needs a place where he can conveniently deposit it, in the full belief that it is both safe and constantly in an abundance of nonsense on this subcreasing. Unpuntshed-Chicago Sequel to an Ohio Sensation

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.] In last Sunday's Commercial appeared inder the head-line "Love and Pater Rights," a faithful record—as far a could be ascertained at the time—of the pranks of "a much married man," who was introduced as William D. Herschell, alian Wm. H. Dobson—how he left a wife and two children in Rochester, N. Y., and, some time after his arrival this city, how he managed, by the aid a smooth tongue and much cheek, to in-gratiate himself into the coufidence of Sallie E. the particulars of his marriage with Miss Douglas on the 18th of last month. Readers, of course, have not forgotten all these facts. While discussing them last Sunday, and wondering who would be the next victim of Herschell's perfidy, a scene of a very exciting nature was en-acted in Chicago. It will be remember-ed that we intimated Herschell, with his third wife, had gone to Chicago, and were supposed to be stopping at the Pot-ter-Palmer house, for the reason that a letter had been received by the mother of the bride, written on paper containing the Palmer house letter heads.

The main points of the article in question, in last Sunday's Commercial, were, on Saturday night, telegraphed to the Chicago Tribune, and appeared in Sunday's issue of that paper.

It seems that Herschell did not stop at the Palmer house on his arrivals (Nicheller).

The western district of Arkansas and the district of North Carolina were alluded to by Mr. Speer, of Pennsylvania, as being by Mr. Speer, of Pennsylvania, as being the Palmer house on his arrival at Chicago, but took rooms at an obscure house known as the Commercial Hotel. After secondrels.

Mr. Beck moved to strike out the appropriation for the department of justice, and renewed his attack upon the department. The letter-heads from the Palmer hous

Set the heroic determination to again go to work, as soon as she has sufficiently recovered from the shock of her mind of Georgia, and she was indeed happy. happy.

The telegraphic dispatches of the paper before her were first scanned, with the hope of meeting with some item of news trom home, so dear to travelers in far-off lands. Unfortunately, the poor girl actually found news of a very un-welcome nature at first, but joyfully em-braced, with thanks to kind Providence that matters were really no worse. The unlucky dispatch from Cincinnati was the first to meet her astonished gaze, and fter reading a few lines she became so absorbed in its contents that she did no absorbed in its contents that she did not notice Herschell's entrance into the room. A moment later the room commenced to more around, the furniture assumed all sor's of fantistic shapes, and finally all was darkness. She realized the nature of the terrible news, and then fell to the floor in a sween.

She was soon restored to consciou ness, however, and regaining her speech equested Herschell to call Mr. Thoma requested Herschell to call Mr. Thomp son, the keeper of the boarding house. The request was not complied with at once, when Georgia attempted to rise, with the intention of calling that gentleman herself. Herschell demanded her reason for summoning Mr. Thompson, but it was not given. Finally the host appeared, and Georgia handed him the peacer with the request to read slowd that paper, with the request to read aloud tha dispatch, which he did, and then turned to Herschell for an explanation.

HOW A BIGAMIST DISPLAYED "CHEEK Like the canal-boat mule, already a luded to in connection with t Herschell was possessed of the requisite for such an emergency. At firs he laughed at the dispatch as a hug he laughed at the dispatch as a huge joke, gotten up by some malicious per son in this city for the purpose of injuring him and making Georgia temporarily unhappy. Then he explained the story of his alleged marriage at Springboro, to Miss Sallie E. Gregg, but before going any further, it will be necessary to relate a little transaction of Herschell's after his arrival in Chicago.

The second or third day he took from a valise a photograph of his second with

The proposition to raise the tax on whisky ten cents a gallon is found to be about as good a means of increasing the revenue as Mr. Kelley's infiation bill is of resuming specie payments. The committee of ways and means have discovered that the country has now on hand about 44,000,000 gallons of whisky—8,000,000 in bond and 36,000,000 in private hands—mostly held for speculation. The excise on all this is already paid, and to raise the duty now would simply stop the manufacture until the stock on hand is largely reduced. Thus it would actually decreased in the stock of the last fifteen years. At one time I thought of marrying her, but after becoming thoroughly acquainted with her I found that she and I could never live happily together, and one day I so informed her. Since that time she has been dogging my steps and making the manufacture until the stock on hand is largely reduced. Thus it would actually Georgia, so that you may know her is case she follows us here. She may at tempt your life if she finds us, and, as matter of protection, I will purchase revolver for you, to-morrow, with to defend yourself if she ever m

Georgia remembered this little story after she had read the dispatch, and made up her mind at once that Hermade up her mind at once that Herschell's statements "wouldn't wash;" that they were entirely too thin in face of the circumstances as to days and dates set forth in the dispatch. The true colors of the villain's character appeared before her bewildered vision as clear as the noonday sun, and in less time than it takes to relate it, the loving, happy and devoted wife was transformed into a fury. It did not require much time than it. devoted wife was tausformed into a fury. It did not require much time for Georgia to mature her future course, and Herschell was at once ordered to quit her presence for ever. Then the villain fell on his knees in the presence of Georgia and Mr. Thompson, and begged God to witness his innucence of any crime, nuch less that of bigamy. He cerformed all sorts of "ground and lofty tumbling," tore his hafr, and capped the climar with "I wish that I were dead." What had he to live for, when the only woman he aver loved had so suddenly turned against him on the mere contents of an unauthenticated telegraph dispatch manufactured solely to injure him. To all this "sout-harrowing" cloquence heart and relieved his sorrowing so-som. Then foll wed a season of peni-tence and allay ing confession. He would now make a little statement of facts, and throw himself upon the geserosity of her he loved so madly. It was true, as stated, that he married Salite Gregg, but soon after the ceremony had been per-formed he learned that she had another husband living, and as a consequence the marriage was void, and he was at liberty to marry again.

HE MAKES A DISHONORABLE PROPO-

In conclusion he had a proposition to make. If it met with the approval of Georgia, there was yet happiness in store for them. The only crefuge now open, ness would not do to "tie to" now, and his very presence was painful to contemplate.

Then the scoundrel assumed the pathetic role again. He would go and battle again with the cold world, friendless and homeless. He had no money beyond a few dollars to leave the girl he had so deeply wronged, but he would place in her hands the means for raising money to supply her wants until he had made a raise of the needful. Suiting action to his words, he took from his "immaculate" shirt bosom—a thousand times whiter than his heart—two small diamond studs, and offered them to her, but his offer was indignantly refused. She gave him to understand that she wanted nothing that ever belonged to him. She had a pair of willing hands, and had supported herself and mother prior to their marriage; she had the same resources left, and a heart large enough to make good use of them to earn her own living.

Then the miserable man commenced his preparations to leave. When he was about to start, Georgia gave him a little good advice. The best thing for him to do would be to proceed immediately to a police station and surrender himself as a fugitive from justice. He would be arrested anyhow inside of twenty-four hours, and might as well go and confess his guilt at once. Herschell listened to all this patiently, and then left the house, but returned later in the day, in hopes that Georgia had relented and forgiven him. He told her that he had met the detectives, but they did not want him. He remained only a short time. given him. He told her that he had met the detectives, but they did not want him. He remained only a short time, gathered up a few articles belonging to him, and again left, after which Georgia saw him no more—in fact, has not heard from him since, and says she has no further desire to, unless he should fall into the clutches of the law, in which event she will gladly appear against him as a prosecuting witness.

RETURN TO THE HOME OF HER MOTHER But little remains to be told of this remaining there a few days, he engaged rooms at a private house, kept by a Mrs. Thompson, at No. 705 Wabash avenue, and went there to board for the winter. The letter-heads from the Palmer house were only for show.

THE HAPPY BRIDE.

After breakfast last Sunday morning, Georgia—she prefers not to be known in future as Mrs. Herschell—with a copy of the Tribune, went up stairs to her room for the purpose of reading the news. Up to this time, she informed our reporter last evening, her short married life decisions of the court of claims in the cotton of said states, respectively, on the twenty-fifth day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, and such qualifications as made and sixty-eight, and such qualifications as to time and place of residence of states, shall be guity or a crime, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than one year nor more than three thousand dollars, and shall be imprisoned not less than one year nor more than three years, one or both, at the discretion of the court and paying the same.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

FAIRBURN LODGE, No. 180, F. and A. M., December 12th, 1874, A. L., 5874.

Whereas, God, in His All-wise Provider has again visited our Lodge and remove from among us our beloved and much esteemed brother, Charles A. Harvey, who departed this life on the 5th instant. Our brother was in the meridian of life, honored with all the endearments which bind us to earth, but in this bright hour of existence the solemn signal was given, calling him from his labors here to an eternal rest. Just as our brother was budding into manowned, and hood, blessed with a devoted and loving to thwart wife, and just as he was entering life with fair prospects for long life and happiness the tocsin of war was sounded in our land and though everything seemed bright in the future for him, yet, like many others, he left wife, friends, all the endearments of where he remained until the flat went fort government to battle for. He then returned home to the bosom of his family, a tried and faithful soldier, but alas, his constitution was rulned in the service of his country After returning home, in 1865, he entere the mercantile business in our midst, wher he had grown up to manhood, and truly he had grown up to manhood, and truly may it be said, he devoted his whole time with all the energies of his nature to his business, never meddling with the business of neighbors and friends. As a business man he was strictly honest in all his dealings; as a friend he was generous and sin cere; as a husband, kind and affectionate as a father, truly devoted, and as a Mason good, true and worthy. But we mean no to write his eulogy. He has gone from us forever. We shall never more have the pleasure of taking him by the hand again on earth, but while we lament his loss he and drop the sympathetic tear over his grave, we trust (through the mercy of God we shall one day have the pleasure of meet ing him in the better land-in that hous not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. Therefore,

Resolved, That we deeply regret and lament the deep affliction that has fallen upon the family and friends of our departed brother, and we hereby offer to them ou sympathy and condolence on the irrepara ble loss they have sustained, especially the bereaved and disconsolate widow and little daughter.

Second, That we will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and tha mourning for the same space of time, as token of respect for our deceased brother. Third. That this preamble and resolu tions be placed on the minutes of the Lodge, and a copy of the same be 'urnished the family of the deceased. Also, a copy be sent to THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION fo

"The Sabbath of Creation."

An appreciative audience assembled last night at James' hall, to hear the lecture of Rev. A. J. Battle, D. D., on the above interesting theme. Rev. Dr. Battle is a profound thinker and a close reasoner. He candled his subject with marked ability, and invested it with new beauty. A synopsis would fall to do the speaker or his theme justice. We regret that every this king man in Atlanta was not present last night to hear him.

Humpty Dumpty. The rendition of the above, by George Fox, and his excellent company, at De Gives last night, to a very large audience was in every respect a thorough success. The audience was in complete sympathy of his entertainment have been appreciated by our citizens, and at the afternoon and might performance, the limitage canvass was densely packed by thousands of delighted people. The collection of animals and birds, which Mr. Robinson has with him, is very fine, embracing several specimens which our readers do not often have an opportunity to see. Amotte these we may mention the Minoceros, the sea lions—two in number, the African lioness and three cubs; also a very large elephant and a batch of avery large elephant and a batch of others. alone worth the price of admission, and is furnishing a treat to crowds.

THE ARENTE PERFORMANCES.

The exhibition in the arena is splendid.
Everything at all off-onsive has been carefully avoided, and so far as the most comical clowns, gymnasts and athlets, who are all stars in their specialities, can furnish amusement, this is the place to find it. The riding of Mr. Robert Stickney is unsurpassed by anything of the kind we have ever seen. His act, where in he introduces his three year old son, drew forth repeated applause. In addition to these, there are a number of female riders, sarrobats, trained horses, etc., whose performances deserve more extended notice than we are able to give them. Suffice it to say, the circus is number one in every respect. Two performances will be given to-day, and as it is Saturday, parents have an opportunity of giving themselves and their children a rare treat. Of one fact our readers may be assured, John Robinson gives as good a show for the money as a condermance of the money and the readers of the surface of their hiding places with electrical respectations.

wish to make a brief statement about a matter which concerus me individually.

About three weeks ago I had the honor to be connected with the Atlanta News, and opened the discussion of the usury laws, their expediency, inexpediency, etc., by commencing a series of interviews The Hon. John H. Jam city. The Hon. John H. James was the first one whose views were obtained. My interview with this gentlemen was very short and concise. It was published in the News correctly, as follows, on this point:

Reporter—Do you favor a usury law?

Mr. James—Well, yes. I think, at least, that such a law's calculated to benefit the public. In other words, I think it would be for the benefit of the people; but as a banker, I am opposed to placing restrictions upon money. money.

Reporter—Well, sir, may I ask pointedly, whether you favor the re-enactment of the uarry law here in Georgia?

Mr. James—I do not say that. I have stated my position. As a banker, I am opposed to it, but have told you that I deem it for the good of the people to have a usury law.

Reporter—What rate of interest would be a proper legal status?

Mr. James—I think that the rate ought to be about eight or ten per cent. That is for the good of the people, you understand.

Now, if the communication which appeared in The Constitution, Mr. James declares that "if you wish to benefit the banks re-enact the usury laws."

But, as seen above, he did not hold this doctrine when I had the honor of interviewing him in his banking sanctum. I state this positively, and without any reservation whatever.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS will be found to possess those qualities necessary to the total eradication of all bilious attacks, prompt to start the secretions of the liver, and give a healthy tone to the entire system. Indeed, it is no ordinary discovery in medical science to have invented a remedy for these stubborn complaints, which develop all the results produced by a heretofore free use of calomel, a mineral justly dreaded by mankind, and acknowledged to be destructive in the extreme to the human system. That the properties of certain vegetables comprise all the virtues of calomel without its injurious tendencies, is now an admitted fact, rendered indisputable by scientific researches; and those who

A young married woman in Worcester dreamed twice last week that she would die at midnight on the first anniversary of her wedding day, and so strongly was she impressed with the vision that she actually made preparations for her funeral, and even gave a sum of money to a friend to purchase mourning. Her husband, becoming alarmed at her condition, consulted a medical friend, stating all the facts of the case. The astute doctor, after a minute's coglitation, discovered a way out of the difficulty. Telling the husband to keep the patient amused as much as possible till late in the afternoon, and admistered a harmless narcotic, which kept the lady asleep till the dreaded moment had passed. She is now in good health, and joins with her friends in laughing at her superstitious fears.

DUNLOP'S COLD & COUGH SYRUP HAS NEVER FAILED TO CURE THE most obstinate Coughs and Colds.

ver seven years, when the number oners ranged from 20 to 70, laboring u prisoners ranged from 20 to 70, laboring under all the diseases incidental to this climate. With but few exceptions they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say during that long period not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

I am now prepared to fill orders from druggists, merchants and others. All orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. There is no type of FEVER, DYSPENIA, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, CHOLERA MORBUS, BILIOUS, NESS and SICK HEADACHE, or other diseases of a Southern climate, but yield realily to this preparation.

PREMIUM

TO THE PUBLIC

In again calling attention to our popular grades of flours, we will attempt no further elaboration of their merits, except to say, that no flour in the wide world can surpass our FFF in purity of stock and richness of sample; and that the world can't produce a more substantial or natritive flour than our FF.

The Family is good for the price, but, necessarily limited in quantity; being made only when we make the FFF.

We can readily fill orders for FFF and FFF; but in selling Family, we are compelled to limit the orders to the annels on hand. We can readily fill orders for FFF and.

Orders to the supply on hand.

Orders for the three grades in equal quantity can be filled at short notice. or for FFF and Family in nearly equal quantities. Orders can generally be supplied promptly.
